UC San Diego Extension – Induction Program

In order to be officially admitted to the Induction program you must first enroll in the $0 (Zero) Application acceptance section. Details on this process were included in your acceptance email. If you do not first complete that step any attempt to enroll in the Induction Introduction course will automatically be reversed when processed.

The following cohort information we are providing you with are the course sections and dates we recommend in order to complete the entire Induction Program in two years

Your recommended cohort is Cohort A1

All candidates accepted into the Induction Program are required to take at minimum the 7 Induction courses. You should refer to your individual Planned Course of Study to see if you have any requirements beyond that.

Each course in the Induction Program sequence is a prerequisite for the next course. You will need to wait until your grade is posted in each course before registering for the next course in the sequence. If you attempt to register for a course before successfully completing the required prerequisite course, your registration will be reversed.
